An IU education is one of the world’s best. There’s no single path to becoming your best. So we empower you to make your own.

Personalize your education
Combine programs, select specializations in your major, or create your own major or minor. The sky’s the limit.

Prepare for the careers of tomorrow
We’re constantly reimagining our schools and majors to meet new needs in the world and to prepare you for growing and in-demand fields.

Hone essential skills
You’ll gain expertise in your chosen field, plus timeless career skills like analytical thinking, communication, and problem solving. Employers will love your versatility.

Dig in and do
Get experience. Create or discover something new. Go on global adventures. To see how, keep reading.

Sohile Ali is a member of IU’s inaugural class of intelligent systems engineering students. He likes the hands-on approach of his courses, where he collaborates with his classmates on projects that incorporate small-scale technology.

Do your interests span multiple subjects? Choose a second major and maybe a third. Add a minor or two. Our programs are designed to be combined, so that your education matches your ambitions.

IU also has hundreds of graduate and professional programs. See all of IU’s programs: go.iu.edu/majors

Exploratory

This is our most popular freshman option, enabling you to explore before declaring a major—ideally at the end of your first year. During this time, you’ll be a student in University Division, the academic and advising home for most new undergrads. You can also start your career exploration at the Career Development Center.

Michael Glennon worked in the chemistry lab of James H. Rudy Professor Sara Skrabalak for three years, helping create nanomaterials that could revolutionize everything from energy to medicine. He plans to attend law school and apply his research background to help scientists protect their discoveries.

Modeled after her cat, Cosmo, Little Mister is Kate Lasser's first large sculpture. The lessons she’s learned from her art projects and scenic design work have set the stage for a creative career, such as designing “beautiful atmospheres” for theatre or large events. She’s starting with a floral design position in Chicago.
ADVENTURE OF A LIFETIME

300+ overseas study programs give you the world.

They span 50+ countries and nearly 20 languages, including English. Stays range from a few days to a full year.

IU students have interned for Chinese companies and the Australian Parliament. Translated for refugees in Italy. Taught dance to children in Panama. Researched human rights in Morocco. So where will you go, and what will you do?
Get noticed by employers, and get ready to excel after they hire you.

Internships
Get work experience in your future career, build your network of contacts, and see what kind of workplace suits you. Programs like our Washington Leadership Program and Blatt Biotechnology Internship Fund give you options everywhere.

Leadership opportunities
Complete the Hoosier Leadership Program, serve in the IU Student Association, direct a student organization, and more.

Service
Enrich your life and help others through service-learning courses, the Hoosier Service Leaders Program, alternative breaks, and student organizations.

Hutton Honors College
Tap into grants for research, international experiences, and creative activity. The HHC also offers stimulating seminars on topics like natural disasters, coffee’s role in global culture, and sexuality and the Constitution.

More ways to get experience and prepare for what’s next:

- Train for an investing career in the Investment Management Workshop.
- Devise solutions to global policy challenges in the IU Diplomacy Lab.
- Write, photograph, or design for the Indiana Daily Student.
- Help nonprofits with technology in the Serve IT clinic.
- Produce live sports broadcasts and virtual reality experiences at the Mark Cuban Center for Sports Media and Technology.
- Teach students in different cultures through the Global Gateway for Teachers program.
- Do research on physical activity in the Human Performance Laboratories.
- Prepare for advanced study and a career in law, medicine, or health through the Health Professions and Prelaw Center.

Stunning
WE’RE THE MOST INSTAGRAMMED PLACE IN INDIANA.

HERE’S WHY.

Plan your visit: go.iu.edu/visit
You can feel the Hoosier spirit in every IU tradition.

You’ll treasure these traditions forever. And they’ll give you and your friends reasons to return as alumni.
Welcome to your home away from home.

You’ll find your place in the IU family.
IU is full of ways to form deep bonds, explore what matters to you, and feel at home. It all starts in your residence hall.

21 residence halls and apartment buildings
New students are required to live on campus, and you’ll be glad you did. You’ll make your first IU friends here. You’ll also have easy access to tutoring and advising—one of the reasons that students who live on campus do better academically. Plus, our 25+ dining locations have options for all tastes.

25 learning communities
Live with students who share one of your interests, like business, health careers, or the environment. You’ll explore that interest together through courses, trips, social events, and career-related programs.

Welcome Week
Kick off the fall semester with exciting activities and time-honored traditions that introduce you to IU life.

FYE, your first-year guide
The Office of First Year Experience Programs (FYE, for short) will support you during your first year. Its programs and events will help you start strong and build a foundation for your entire IU experience.

750+ student organizations
We have the one (or five) for you. Besides having fun, you’ll build your network of connections and get leadership experience.

6 cultural centers and institutes
Celebrate cultures you love, and find others you want to learn more about.

Students from 50 states and 150 countries
Our 39,000 undergraduates and 10,500 graduate students include people of all kinds, expanding your worldview.

Bloomington, the perfect college town
IU is located in the heart of this 84,000-person small city. Shop on Kirkwood Avenue. Enjoy international cuisine. See great shows. Explore miles of trails. And find even more people and activities you like.

For his individualized major in marine biology, Joshua Stewart dove into underwater research projects such as excavating a 17th-century shipwreck. Now he’s a Ph.D. student at Scripps Institution of Oceanography, where he studies manta rays, and an associate director for the Manta Trust.

Ashley Toruno
At IU: Studied public management, learning how to improve communities. Practiced her skills as a summer associate for AmeriCorps VISTA and an intern for USAID in Washington, D.C.
After IU: Graduated in 2017, and joined ACLU of Indiana as a community engagement associate.

Natalie Moore
At IU: Majored in marketing and international business. Studied in Hong Kong, inspiring her to work for an international consumer brand.
After IU: Is a marketing analyst for Mac & Cheese products at Kraft Heinz in Chicago. Monitors retailer data, develops new products, and drives growth.

Michael Koryta
At IU: Studied criminal justice. Wrote his first two published novels.
After IU: Worked as a private investigator and newspaper reporter before writing full time. Is a bestselling author of 12 suspense novels.

Sage Steele
At IU: Studied sports communication. Interned for a radio station and IU Athletics.

650,000+ IU graduates who will support you
IU alumni are everywhere, and they’re eager to help another Hoosier. One of the world’s largest alumni networks, they’ll mentor you and connect you with opportunities—while you’re a student and throughout your career.
How to apply

We’ll guide you step-by-step. Start here, and then learn more and apply: go.iu.edu/apply

1. Get ready to apply
Start early. Review our application options, required materials, and deadlines so you know what to submit and when you’ll receive a response.

November 1 is the early action deadline (non-binding) and scholarship deadline. To be considered for IU Academic and Selective Scholarships, you must submit a complete application for admission (including official transcript, test scores, and IU-specific essay) by this date.

Application deadlines
Submit a complete application by this deadline: Receive a response no later than:
November 1 January 15
February 1 March 15
All applications submitted after February 1 will be considered on a space-available, case-by-case basis.

Accomplished and global: our 2016 freshman class

• 72.1% in the top quarter of their high school class
• 56.9% Indiana residents, 34.3% students from other U.S. states, 8.7% international students
• 50.3% male, 49.7% female
• 23.3% domestic students of color (African American, Asian American, Latino, American Indian, Native Hawaiian/Pacific Islander, or multiracial)

For info about the new class of IU freshmen, go to go.iu.edu/profile beginning in September.

2. Complete your application
Choose your application at go.iu.edu/apply. You have three options for applying to IU Bloomington:
• Apply IU Application
• Common Application
• Coalition Application

Even though you have three options for applying, you should submit only one application for admission to IU Bloomington. No preference is given for any one application over the others, and the items required to complete each application are the same. The admission review process is also the same for all three applications. The application fee is non-refundable.

You also need to:
• Submit the IU-specific essay as part of your application.
• Submit your official high school transcript.
• Have your ACT and/or SAT scores sent to IU Bloomington directly from the testing agencies. Make sure you send all your scores because we superscore.

3. After you apply
We’ll thoroughly review all your materials.
Create your IU computing account so you can check the status of your application and To Do List online at one.iu.edu.

If you’re a transfer, intercampus transfer, adult, military/veteran, or second degree applicant or a visiting student, visit our website to learn how and when to apply for undergraduate admission: go.iu.edu/how-apply

Our MoneysMarts program helps you establish good money habits, make informed financial decisions, and reduce your debt.

Since 2011, we’ve helped IU Bloomington undergrads reduce their collective annual student-loan borrowing by 9 percent, or $10.5 million. Among our 2015–16 bachelor’s degree recipients, 56 percent graduated with no student-loan debt, compared to about 30 percent nationally. In total, about 80 percent of our bachelor’s degree recipients had no student-loan debt or had a student-loan balance below the national average.
