Become your best
You have big plans and bigger dreams.

To achieve them, you need to tap into your potential and become your best.
That’s why we’re here. Our goal is to help you reach yours.

At Indiana University Bloomington, we encourage your ambitions. We empower you every way we can. We give you abundant opportunities to learn, get experience, and grow—so you’re ready for your career and your life.
Your future is bright. We want to help you shine.

You are IU’s third century
This year we’re celebrating IU’s Bicentennial, and then our next 200 years begin. Let’s forge the future together.
An IU education is one of the world’s best.

There’s no single path to becoming your best. So we empower you to make your own.

Personalize your education

Combine programs, select specializations in your major, or create your own major or minor. The sky’s the limit.

Prepare for the careers of tomorrow

We’re constantly reimagining our schools and majors to meet new needs in the world and to prepare you for growing and in-demand fields.

Hone essential skills

You’ll gain expertise in your chosen field, plus timeless career skills like analytical thinking, communication, and problem solving. Employers will love your versatility.

Dig in and do

Get experience. Create or discover something new. Go on global adventures. To see how, keep reading.

YOUR CURIOSITY AND CAREER

Xandria McDowell, an intelligent systems engineering major, worked on a wildfire data logistics project. It involved the programming of robots to avoid obstacles and transmit information to firefighters in the field. Her work helped her earn an internship at NSWC Crane, a nearby naval base.

LARGE AND SMALL

Modeled after her cat, Cosmo, Little Mister was Kate Lasser’s first large sculpture. The lessons she learned from her art projects and scenic design work at IU set the stage for her creative career: she lives in Chicago, where she is a production assistant in the art department for the TV show Empire.

Jesús Bazán Vitlicaña studied cell division of the pathogen Streptococcus pneumoniae in Professor of Biology Malcolm Winkler’s lab, aided by IU’s Light Microscopy Imaging Center. His work could help lead to better antibiotics. He also developed a strong foundation in research that prepared him well for the M.D./Ph.D. program he entered after IU. He plans to become a physician-scientist focusing on infectious disease.

ADVENTURE OF A LIFETIME

380+ overseas study programs give you the world.

They span 65+ countries and nearly 20 languages, including English. Stays range from a few days to a full year.

IU students have interned for European fashion houses. Analyzed IT development in India. Taught reading and writing to children in Rwanda. Created documentaries in Ecuador. So where will you go, and what will you do?

Morgan McKown took this photo on a trip to Morocco during her semester in London. While abroad, she worked toward her degree in healthcare management and policy by studying politics and global development, which informed her understanding of health policies in the United States and other countries.
Get noticed by employers, and get ready to excel after they hire you.

Internships
Get work experience in your future career, build your network of contacts, and see what kind of workplace suits you. Programs like our Washington Leadership Program, Blatt Life Sciences Internship Fund, and Semester in Los Angeles give you options everywhere.

Leadership opportunities
Complete the Hoosier Leadership Program, serve in IU Student Government, direct a student organization, and more.

Service
Enrich your life and help others through service-learning courses, IU Corps, alternative breaks, and student organizations.

Hutton Honors College
Join a community of talented and highly motivated students. You can take advantage of stimulating seminars; Honors Residential Communities; unique programs; scholarships; and funding for research, creative activity, and international experiences.

More ways to get experience and prepare for what’s next:
• Train for a financial services career in the Investment Banking Workshop.
• Devise solutions to global policy challenges in the IU Diplomacy Lab.
• Launch your research career in the Science, Technology, and Research Scholars (STARS) program.
• Tell stories through the Indiana Daily Student, IU Student Television, and WUID radio.
• Help nonprofits with technology in the Serve IT clinic.
• Teach students in different cultures through the Global Gateway for Teachers program.
• Debut your mini-collection in the IU Fashion Show.
• Prepare for advanced study and a career in law, medicine, or health through the Health Professions and PreLaw Center.

Spencer Biery started in IU’s University Division (UD) before entering a degree-granting IU school. His UD advisor, Alice Dobie, was a key source of ideas, feedback, and support as he tried out majors and found his best fit: international studies. Last summer he studied in the Dominican Republic.

Sade Roberson interned at nearby French Lick Resort, in the magnificent, historic West Baden Springs Hotel. She learned all about operating a hotel, confirmed that she wants to work in hospitality, and spent a summer doing what she loves: making guests happy.

Stunning
WE’RE THE MOST INSTAGRAMMED PLACE IN INDIANA.

HERE’S WHY.

Plan your visit: go.iu.edu/visit
You can feel the Hoosier spirit in every IU tradition.

You’ll treasure our 200 years of traditions. And they’ll give you and your friends reasons to return as alumni.
WELCOME TO YOUR HOME AWAY FROM HOME

You’ll find your place in the IU family.
IU is full of ways to form deep bonds, explore what matters to you, and feel at home. It all starts in your residence hall.

20 residence halls and apartment complexes
New students are required to live on campus, and you’ll be glad you did. You’ll make your first IU friends here. You’ll also have easy access to tutoring and advising—one of the reasons that students who live on campus do better academically. Plus, our 24 dining locations have options for all tastes.

20+ learning communities
Live with students who share one of your interests, like business, health careers, or media. You’ll explore that interest together through courses, trips, social events, and career-related programs.

Welcome Week
Kick off the fall semester with exciting activities and time-honored traditions that introduce you to IU life.

Hoosier Experience events
The Office of First Year Experience Programs (FYE, for short) will support you during your first year. FYE’s Hoosier Experience events will help you start strong and build a foundation for your entire IU experience.

750+ student organizations
We have the one (or five) for you. Besides having fun, you’ll build your network of connections and get leadership experience.

6 cultural centers and institutes
Celebrate cultures you love, and find others you want to learn more about.

Students from 50 states and 140+ countries
Our 33,000 undergraduates and 10,000 graduate students include people of all kinds, expanding your worldview.

Bloomington, the perfect college town
IU is located in the heart of this 84,000-person small city. Shop on Kirkwood Avenue. Enjoy international cuisine. See great shows. Explore miles of trails. And find even more people and activities you like.

How to apply

We’ll guide you step-by-step. Start here, and then learn more and apply: go.iu.edu/apply

1. Get ready to apply

Start early. Review our application options, required materials, and deadlines so you know what to submit and when you’ll receive a response.

November 1 is the early action deadline (non-binding) and scholarship deadline. To meet this deadline, you must submit a complete application for admission (including official transcript and test scores, and IU-specific essay) by this date.

Application deadlines

Submit a complete application by this deadline: Receive a response no later than:

November 1 January 15
February 1 March 15

All applications submitted after February 1 will be considered on a space-available, case-by-case basis.

Students admitted for fall 2019

Middle 50% Average/Median

SAT (Math and Evidence-Based Reading and Writing) 1180–1380 1279 average
ACT (Composite) 25–32 28 average
High school GPA 3.58–4.00 3.86 median

2. Complete your application

Choose your application at go.iu.edu/apply. You have three options for applying to IU Bloomington:

• Apply IU Application
• Common Application
• Coalition Application

Even though you have three options for applying, you should submit only one application for admission to IU Bloomington. No preference is given for any one application over the others, and the items required to complete each application are the same. The admission review process is also the same for all three applications. The application fee is non-refundable.

You also need to:

• Submit the IU-specific essay as part of your application.
• Submit your official high school transcript.
• Have your ACT and/or SAT scores sent to IU Bloomington directly from the testing agencies. Make sure you send all your scores because we superscore.

If you’re a transfer, intercampus transfer, adult, military/veteran, or second degree applicant or a visiting student, visit our website to learn how and when to apply for undergraduate admission: go.iu.edu/how-apply

Accomplished and global: our 2018 freshman class

Scholarships

IU offers a variety of scholarship opportunities. For highest scholarship consideration—including consideration for the IU Academic Scholarships and the Selective Scholarship Application (SSA)—submit a complete application for admission (including official transcript and test scores, and IU-specific essay) by November 1.

Then:

• If your admission email says you’re invited to complete the online SSA, make sure you submit the application and requested documents by the stated deadline.
• If you met the November 1 scholarship deadline, you may submit updated ACT and/or SAT scores until January 15 for additional scholarship consideration.

More financial aid

Make sure to review the steps in the financial aid process in the fall of your senior year.

Your biggest to-do: submit the Free Application for Federal Student Aid (FAFSA) between October 1 and April 15.

Get moneysmart

Our Moneysmarts program helps you establish good financial habits, make informed financial decisions, and reduce your debt.

Since 2011, we’ve helped IU Bloomington undergrads reduce their collective annual student-loan borrowing by almost 14 percent, or $16 million.

Among our 2017–18 bachelor’s degree recipients, 56 percent graduated with no student-loan debt. Nationally, that figure was about 43 percent in 2016–17, the last year for which data is available. In total, about 84 percent of our 2017–18 bachelor’s degree recipients had no student-loan debt or had a student-loan balance below the national average.
